Please give us your comment	Byfleet and West Byfleet are divided by a bridge over the canal and the M25. The road which runs across, the Parvis Road, is easily congested and the nearest alternative crossing is in New Haw. There are regular congestion problems due to the current volume of traffic within the area and unless there is an alternative road bridge built across the M25 with direct access to the A3 then any substantial increase in community numbers is obviously going to have a negative impact on traffic which has no where else to go. Although the schools and doctors surgery may say that they can cope with an increase in numbers (they get paid per individual) there is absolutely no capacity for additional parking (or cars which need to find existing parking spaces) in the west byfleet town centre. The railway station is at max capacity (there are not enough trains at commuter times currently so an dramatically increased volume of commuters would just be ridiculous). Any problems on the A3 results in severe congestion in the area and so a large housing estate using existing highway infrastructure would just result in absolute chaos. I understand the need to re-develop Broadoaks into commercial space but that cannot be in addition to proposing housing development on adjoining sites GB15 and GB4 (which is just the other side of the M25). This site should be the last place to be considered for development in the area for logical reasons ie lack of ability to improve local infrastructure. I would strongly suggest you look at a greenfield site along the A3 (like near junction 4a of M3) and build a purpose built town so that the road network can cope with additional traffic and you can create necessary parking for an increase number of cars.

ill thought through proposal based solely on land available rather than looking at the impact to local environment. Local infrastructure including roads are fit to burst already and there is not enough parking.
