

Dear Sirs,

The proposal to build more than 400 homes on the Pyrford Greenbelt stuns me.

I live in Pyrford and know that the infrastructure today can in no way handle such a development. It is already an area getting busier by the day not to mention the schooling, doctors and elderly care. However, for all the people of Woking, it is vital that they can escape their urban environment at the junction of Old Woking Road and Pyrford Common Road and quickly enjoy a rural relaxing experience. 400 plus houses would create a traffic nightmare instead of today where they can enjoy driving to Ripley and beyond (or even parking at Newark Bridge and going walking). Why do you even consider the destruction of this beauty spot !

I hope this is reconsidered as areas of natural beauty and access to them are vital.

I note the Pyrford Forum will also discuss with you the legal and technical issues of your proposal. I am sure you already are aware of these issues so no need for me to repeat them.

Yours Truly
