To whom it may concern,

I am emailing to raise a couple of objections to the Upshot Lane redesignation.

I have looked at the proposals on the borough website and my concerns are as follows:

- Pyrford is a small village with charm and character and the landscape and views are important in maintaining this culture.
- Woking seem to have departed from the independent advisers views recommendations – why is this?
- Pyrford is already congested at peak times and more houses will mean more congestion
- Public transport is poor and doesn't serve the current never mind a future community
- We are already seeing a major upheaval with gas works – more houses will mean more upheaval around sewers, utilities and other infrastructure work

Is a development site for over 400 houses what we need or could we be looking at smaller developments for our aging population to release more housing stock for the future?

Please keep me informed of any future developments

Many thanks

Regards
