With the utmost reluctance I agree with the plan to build a school and necessary facilities on green belt land bordering Egley Road. Also as most school playing fields have disappeared over the years, the proposed sports facilities do fill a gap. At least this development will benefit Woking as a community.

However I am totally opposed to any more building on green belt land.

As a town Woking has expanded way beyond imagination over the years and green belt is now more vital than ever.

I am painfully aware of the colossal profits on offer here, but it is the duty of the council to fully protect the interests of its citizens. This comes before any thought of monetary gains, however vast.

Any house building should be confined to brownfield sites, which I feel is the intention of the the recent government proposals.

May ford is a small village, a very warm and friendly community, to destroy this for the sake of housing estates, three times the size we are now, is unbelievable.

Most of the green belt roundabouts is owned by speculators, who have bought the land for a pittance many years ago, it has not been looked after at all but suddenly rolls of fencing and barbed wire have appeared in preparation for building etc.

I look forward to your answers.
