Dear Jeni Jackson,

I'm not against building new houses in the area as long as the roads are improved to take account of all the extra traffic likely to be generated.

For instance:

In Pyrford from which road will the proposed new estates be reached, the narrow Pyrford Common Road or the even narrower Upshot Lane?

In West Byfleet, Parvis Road is the only direct route between West Byfleet and Byfleet and, at certain times of the the day, is conjested at present. What will it be like after 750 or so dwellings are built, let alone the additional traffic from the proposed school on the Broadoaks Estate.

Regards,
Mrs Aneirwen Wellerd
